

QUETZA

Quetza is a bookshelf that roughly resembles the Aztec god Quetzalcoatl who was shaped after a feathered snake. The piece can be leaned against a wall or supported by a table or chair. As it appears in pre-hispanic architecture, the snake descends to the ground as if sliding down a staircase.

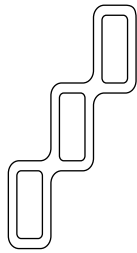

Designed by: NEL colectivo.

Manufactured by: Pirwi.

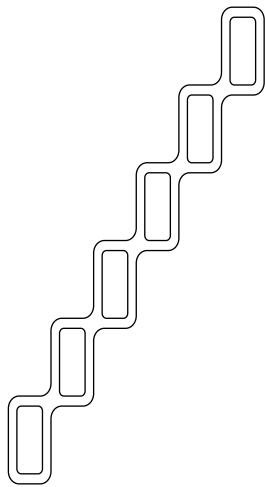

Year: 2007

Participants: Ricardo Casas, Héctor Esrawe, Emiliano Godoy, Cecilia León de la Barra.

Material: plywood with walnut, birch or black veneer

Quetza
105 x 120 x 30 cms

Quetza
210 x 240 x 30 cms